GRAND ROUNDS

Dr. Sarah Forgie

Where Skill Meets Scholarship: The Future of Medicine

Sarah Forgie is currently in her first year as the Dean of the College of Medicine at the University of Saskatchewan. Originally from northern Manitoba, she spent the last 21 years in Edmonton at the University of Alberta. She is currently a professor of pediatrics and an infectious diseases physician based at the Jim Pattison Children's Hospital. She has held numerous leadership roles including Department Chair of Pediatrics and Vice-Provost (Learning Initiatives) at the University of Alberta. At the national level she served as the President of the Association of Medical Microbiology and Infectious Diseases Canada and Vice President of the Pediatric Chairs of Canada. She is known for her innovative and creative teaching approaches which have been recognized with many teaching awards including the 3M National Teaching Fellowship and she continues with her research which currently focuses on innovations in medical education. She is a passionate advocate for women in medicine, supporting them in their clinical work, education, leadership, and research throughout their academic journey.
