

RESEARCH BITE #16

DATE: June 3, 2016

RE: Online Training Library

All U of S faculty, staff and students have free and unlimited access to lynda.com, an online training resource containing thousands of videos on the latest software tools and skills. The online training courses are available for people at all levels of experience. You may create your own playlist, keep track of your progress and receive recognition with a certificate at the end of the course.

Learn software, creative, academic and business skills to achieve personal and professional goals. Courses range from in-depth training on specific software packages, to first looks at up-and-coming technology trends and even include inspirational documentaries following creative professionals working in a variety of disciplines.

You can watch entire courses or single tutorial videos as required, and access the lynda.com library 24/7 from your iPhone, iPad, Android, or other mobile phone or tablet. Exercise files let you follow along with the instruction as you learn, and bookmarks help you keep track of what you'd like to watch.

You will need to login with your NSID and password to enter the site. For more information, including instructions on how to use your smart phone to access this online training library, please click on the link below:

<http://lynda.usask.ca/>

Karen E. Mosier,
Research Coordinator/Navigator
Department of Surgery
Email: karen.mosier@usask.ca
Phone: 306-966-8935