

HISTOLOGY

Histology is part of our curriculum that includes a component within the Foundations of Clinical Medicine I: Introduction to Biomedical Sciences module and integrated content in other courses over the program

Year One Term One:

Foundations in Clinical Medicine I: Introduction to Biomedical Sciences:Histology

Cell Biology I	Epithelial Tissues
Muscles	Neural Tissues
Connective Tissues

Foundations of Clinical Medicine I-IV

Histology related content is included in the following locations within the systems based modules within the four linked Foundations courses:

Haematology: Origin and Development of blood cells, Peripheral Blood Smear

Gastroenterology: Histology of the GI tract: Alimentary canal; Liver; Salivary glands & Pancreas

Respiratory: Respiratory Histology I & II

Cardiovascular: Histology of the Heart and Vessels

Dermatology: Overview of Skin Structure and Function

Musculoskeletal: Histology: Muscles/Bones/Joints

Reproductive Medicine: Histology of the Female Reproductive Tract; Male Reproductive Tract

Kidney & Urinary Tract: Histology of the Kidney and Urinary Tract