

Table of Contents

Preparation for Day 1
Overview of teaching & learning	6
What is a microteaching session?	7
Why should/do residents teach?	9
Key principles of learning	10
Practice organizing an instructional session	11
Writing learning outcomes/objectives	12
Set	18
Body	20
Closure	26
Day 1 Resources	29
Practice organizing an instructional session	30
Sample lesson plan	31
Preparing for your microteaching session	32
Critiquing a microteaching session	33
TIPS teaching observation form	35
PowerPoint tips	36
Preparation for Day 2	37
Understanding the Learner Experience	38
The experience of learning is unique to an individual	39
Cognitive Biases	42
Day 2 Resources	46
Clinical teaching techniques	47
Characteristics of excellent clinical teachers	48
Illness scripts or patterns	53
Teaching differential diagnoses	54
SNAPPSS	55
Precepting using microskills	56
Chart stimulated recall	58
Teaching skills & procedures	62
Using questions to stimulate thinking	63
Safe & positive learning environments	64
Clinical assessment & feedback	66
Cognitive biases	72
Preparing for your second microteaching session	74
Appendix
Preparing your office for learners	75
Teaching & learning plans	79
Orienting learners to clinical experience	81
Patient education	87
Sample lesson plans	93
TIPS teaching observation form Media	95
use in medical education	96
Additional Resources	98